

Safeguarding Children

News from City of York Safeguarding Children Partnership | March 2020

Welcome

After 6 years as Independent Chair this is my last foreword as the safeguarding partners have chosen to develop a new model of independent scrutiny next year.

I want to thank all the people who have contributed to safeguarding children in York during my time here.

Organisational culture guides decisions and actions in practice and has an impact on effectiveness. The role of independent scrutiny is to provide assurance in judging the effectiveness of the multi-agency arrangements. I wish the partnership well for the future.

As an early adopter of the new safeguarding arrangements we have continued to work with the University of York St John, NSPCC and young people from York schools developing a guide on safety and social media, you will hear more of progress next year.

Always be open to learning, encourage professional curiosity and try to put the child at the centre of your work.

Managing Injuries to children who are not mobile

Annex A

An updated version of Practice Guidance - Managing Injuries to non-independently mobile children is now available. This guidance provides all professionals working with children and families with a knowledge base and strategy for the assessment and management of children who are not independently mobile and present with injuries or bruising.

A standalone information leaflet is also available – Information guide for professionals to give to parents re Managing Injuries to Non-Independently Mobile Children which supports practitioners in explaining to parents why the referral to CSC and the paediatric assessment is necessary.

Missing from Care

A new leaflet has been designed by children to explain the importance of an independent return interview when returning home after being missing from care. The leaflet explains the independent support available to these young people.

Harmful Sexual Behaviour

Last April York's Youth Justice Service (YJS) launched a Harmful Sexual Behaviour (HSB) Service to work with young people who had been identified as presenting with HSB issues, but that had not resulted in a police investigation or prosecution.

Government findings indicate that those young people offered early intervention benefit from the child-centred approach of youth justice practitioners and their chances of rehabilitation improve. Nationally recognised identification, assessment and intervention tools e.g. Brook Traffic light tool and AIM 3 are used.

This intervention can enable young people to adopt a healthy development pathway and proceed to make healthy future relationships.

Seven Point Briefing - Learning from Practice

Multi Agency learning from the case of Baby L has now been formatted into a Seven Point Briefing.

Agencies are encouraged to promote this learning within their own organisations.

Was not brought

Safeguarding partners in Nottingham have commissioned an animation to encourage practitioners to identify children as 'Was Not Brought' as opposed to 'Did Not Attend' when referring to them not being presented at medical appointments.

It is important for medical professionals to have policies and procedures in place that clarify what they should do if a child is not brought to a medical appointment.

Non-attendance should not only be coded correctly but also trigger an appropriate response, such as a follow-up phone call.

The animation is a powerful reminder that children do not take themselves to appointments; they have to be taken by parents or carers. The animation encourages practitioners to reflect on the impact that missed appointments have on a child's wellbeing.

Prevent update

Safer York Partnership has updated the Prevent guidance for Working with Individuals Vulnerable to Extremism.

In January the City of York Guidance, Channel Referral Process and Referral form were updated on the CYSCP website.

If you think that a child or young person is vulnerable to extremism/ radicalisation or exhibiting behaviour or making comments that suggest he/she may be involved in activity which could be linked to terrorism, you need to follow the safeguarding guidance in regard to being concerned about a child.

Mind your Language

In 2018 Show Me That I Matter (York's Children in Care Council) took part in a national campaign by TACT Fostering and Adoption to challenge the way professionals talk about children in care.

The young people explained that professionals often use language which they are unhappy with and wanted to do something to challenge this in York. They created a series of cards with the words that they would like to encourage professionals to use. The cards identify the four words they have chosen and why, these are:

- 'Child or young person in care' instead of LAC
- 'Stayover' instead of respite
- 'Seeing my family' instead of contact
- 'Home' instead of placement

The electronic cards are available for any services who work with children and young people by contacting showmethatimatter@york.gov.uk

The team provides support to young people to reduce the harm that drugs and alcohol can cause, at a mutually convenient place and time. Support may include:

- 1:1 support for under 18s using substances or for under 18s affected by someone else's substance use
- 1:1 support for people aged 18-21 using substances to support the transition to adult services
