From North Yorkshire Police. Would like the phrase “in an emergency” removed from the emergency vehicle exemption in order to lawfully enter the street or pass through to attend a situation before it rises to their definition of an emergency when blue lights would be used. 6	This request can be taken forward during the TRO making process without needing to re-advertise as it is a reduced severity of the TRO proposal and does not substantially change the proposal.
From Yorkshire Ambulance Service. There are some circumstances where whilst not an emergency a patient may be sick or in pain and the timeliest route to hospital is desirable. 999 call responses can be urgent but not on a blue light. Ambulances are deployed around the city to ensure emergency cover but these aren't done using blue lights. 7	As above.
