

Scrutiny and regulation working together

Jo Bell
Inspection Manager
14 January 2015

CQC's Strategy for 2013 to 2016 states that

'locally we will focus on developing relationships with local authorities...overview and scrutiny committees'.

Also 'in involvingoverview and scrutiny committees...we will make sure we better share information locally about people's experiences of care.'

“CQC should expand its work with overview and scrutiny committees and foundation trust governors as a valuable information source” (47)

These slides give an overview of:

- CQC's new strategy
- Changing our approach to regulating, inspecting and rating services
- How we want to work with your Overview and Scrutiny Committee
- Further information

Our purpose and role

Our purpose

We make sure health and social care services provide people with safe, effective, compassionate, high-quality care and we encourage care services to improve

Our role

We monitor, inspect and regulate services to make sure they meet fundamental standards of quality and safety and we publish what we find, including performance ratings to help people choose care

We will be a strong, independent, expert inspectorate that is always on the side of people who use services

'Raising Standards; Putting People First 2013-2016'

- Better information for the public including ratings
- Improved assessments of services and Chief Inspectors
- Stronger national and local partnerships – eg. health and wellbeing boards, Healthwatch, OSCs
- A more rigorous test for organisations applying for registration with CQC
- Changing our approach to the NHS acute trusts and mental health -New fundamental standards
- Improve our assessments of how services work together – for example dementia care

Underpinning our approach

Our judgements will be independent of the health and social care system

We will always be on the side of people who use services.

This is why our relationships with overview and scrutiny committees are an important part of how we work.

Five areas of quality and safety in our new approach to inspections

Our new inspections across all sectors ask:

Are services safe?

Are they effective?

Are they caring?

Are they well-led?

Are they responsive to what people tell them?

We want to use any information available from OSCs to support these inspections – especially feedback from local people

By safe, we mean that people are protected from abuse and avoidable harm.

By effective, we mean that people's care, treatment and support achieves good outcomes, promotes a good quality of life and is based on the best available evidence.

By caring, we mean that staff involve and treat people with compassion, kindness, dignity and respect.

By responsive, we mean that services are organised so that they meet people's needs.

By well-led, we mean that the leadership, management and governance of the organisation assure the delivery of high-quality care, supports learning and innovation, and promotes an open and fair culture.

What we will continue to do

- Inspections at any time in response to concerns
- Reviews on particular areas of care – including a review of emergency mental health care, a review of end of life care and are currently planning a review on care for over 75s
- Regulatory and enforcement action

Our new approach

- Our new approach to acute hospital inspections has been introduced since April following our pilot inspections
- Our inspection programme for October to December 2014 has recently been announced – for acute, community and mental health trust inspections
- We will also carry out inspections for Adult Social Care, NHS GP practices and OOH

- We will start to test out our new approach to inspecting dentists
- Read our plans on the way we will inspect dental care services from 2015 –

- Share your comments about our primary care dental signposting statement by emailing pdsinspections@cqc.org.uk

- We have inspection teams responsible for:
- Primary and integrated care
- Adult social care
- Acute, community and mental health services

We will maintain local relationships with scrutiny committees

Inspection teams will work together to coordinate their contact with scrutiny committees

We want Overview and Scrutiny Committees to:

- Continue an ongoing relationship with local CQC staff
- Advise us as part of our new inspections of NHS trusts and primary care inspections – sharing evidence and contributing to the Quality Summits
- Know what we have done with your information
- Know about all our inspection activity and where we have concerns about services
- Explore how to use OSC evidence of social care in the new approach to social care inspections

We are working with the Centre for Public Scrutiny to develop closer working relationships with scrutiny committees and elected members to:

- Help improve the consistency and quality of local relationships
 - Increase evidence gathered and used to inform our regulatory activity
 - Increase the use of CQC information in local scrutiny
 - Develop information sharing between scrutiny, Healthwatch and Health and Well Being Boards

Top tips for scrutiny committees

- Build a dialogue with CQC – with regular informal contact and chairs able to ‘pick up the phone’
 - Let CQC know your committee’s plans and progress of work
 - Meet with CQC – as a partner not as a ‘witness’
 - Use our information – the registered services in your area, our inspection activity and our findings
 - Share information with CQC about people’s experiences of the local health and care system and of individual services
 - Information from scrutiny reviews, public meetings, issues from councillors can all be useful to CQC
 - Share your findings and recommendations from reviews
 - Expect feedback from CQC on how we use your information

In return, your local CQC contact will:

- Aim for a 'no surprises' relationship – regular structured contact
 - Meet with OSCs – but as a partner, not an interviewee
 - Explain how CQC fits into the local health and care system
 - Provide feedback on how we use information from scrutiny
 - Explain how services do/don't meet the fundamental standards and what CQC expects of providers
 - Have confidential conversations with the chair/lead officer where agreed
 - Hold joint meetings where needed with you and the local Healthwatch
 - Help councillors understand the inspection process

- We will continue to write to all scrutiny committees as we announce new inspections and alerting committees to public listening events
- You should receive local press releases and updates on our national reports.
- We will commence a two monthly ebulletin for all OSCs– setting out our latest news and ways you can get involved in our work
- We are planning an updated briefing for OSCs about working with CQC (due autumn 2014)
- A new brief on how CQC and district councillors can work together (due autumn 2014)

Reports, alerts and ebulletin for OSCs

On our website, you can now sign up to receive alerts about our inspections of your local care services.

You can subscribe to receive alerts from the profile of any service in England. See our instructions on how you can sign up for these alerts. <http://www.cqc.org.uk/public/our-email-alerts>
